

Chapter 772

The next morning.

Zelda made breakfast for Chuck before he went out to look for Yolanda.

"By the way, where is Quinn?"

When Chuck left, there was something going on with Quinn's company at that time. Chuck handed her some money, but he didn't keep up with her progress.

He didn't know how Quinn was doing.

"How would I know? It's not appropriate to mention other women in my house!" Zelda pretended to be angry.

In fact, she really did not pay attention to Quinn.

She only knew that Quinn was facing some difficulties.

Chuck coughed.

"Well, I only know that Quinn is facing some problems. As for the rest, I'm not sure because I'm very occupied with the branch outlet recently."

Chuck was dumbfounded. That shouldn't be the case!

When he left, he remembered that Quinn was doing quite well.

"Well, I'll make a move first." Chuck felt that it was necessary to check on Quinn.

After all, he had a relationship with Quinn.

"You are going to look for her right?" Zelda was very jealous.

Her relationship with Quinn was not good at all.

How could she not feel uneasy knowing Chuck that was going to look for Quinn?

"No."

"Fine, I won't ask. Remember, if you are hungry, come here. If you are tired, come here too. I don't care about anything else, okay?"

Chuck was so moved that he didn't know what to say. Zelda was too understanding.

"Alright."

Chuck left Zelda's house and called Betty, "Betty, please help me to check on Quinn."

"Yes, I'll let you know once I've found out what is going on," Betty said.

"All right."

Chuck hung up. It would be easier to leave it to Betty to investigate.

He could then look for Yolanda without so much in his mind.

Using Zelda's car, Chuck drove to the City Square. He was filled with emotion!

It was actually Chuck's first investment and seemed like the investment was going very well.

Over the weekend, the plaza was crowded with people.

When Chuck first took over the plaza, the place was quiet and there was only a handful of people. There were many shop lots that were not rented out. It had become better in recent years.

The only thing Chuck regretted was that it was his first real investment, and he couldn't witness the growth of the plaza because he had to go to the United States!

Fortunately, everything seemed to be going smoothly.

Chuck headed in.

A few girls from other universities were chatting excitedly.

"The plaza is now crowded with people. Who would have thought that when it first started, we would not even think of coming here!"

"Yes. Back then, all my classmates didn't want to come here. But suddenly, everyone seemed to be interested in this place and they all came here to shop and eat..."

"Me too! I also heard that the owner of this plaza is just a college student, a sophomore!"

"Really? My gosh, I thought the owner was in his fifties."

"Of course not. I heard that the boss is young and keeps a low profile. At first, his classmates didn't know about it. Later on, his classmates found out that he is actually rich!"

"I'm intrigued! I would also like to meet this boss!"

"Me too. Hey, you, are you in the same college as the boss?" A girl pulled Chuck aside and asked.

Chuck coughed and said, "Yes, what's the matter?"

"Really? Do you know the plaza owner? Are you his classmate?" Several girls looked at Chuck expectantly.

"Yes, that's right."

"Is he handsome?"

"Umm..."

"Why are you hesitating? Tell us!"

"Go ask someone else."

Chuck couldn't stand the girls.

"It seems like he doesn't know. That's fine. Let's not ask him."

"Yes, let's go and ask someone else. Just by looking at him, I think we should just forget it."

The girls rolled their eyes at Chuck and felt disappointed.

Indeed, the owner of the plaza kept a low profile, and not many people recognized him!

"Chuck!"

Lara rushed over in surprise. She couldn't believe it when she saw him driving a rather ordinary car over.

Zelda had a lot of luxurious cars, but Chuck was too lazy to drive any of them. He just needed to keep a low profile. After so many years, Chuck was old enough to get over the dream of going after nice cars, houses, and so on.

As long as the car could get him where he wanted, he was satisfied.

"Lara." Chuck gave a faint smile.

Lara had changed a lot. Back then, she was hot-tempered and unreasonable. She had changed her appearance as well. She did not keep her fringe, and instead had become a long-haired goddess.

"Chuck, it's been a while." Lara was about to tear up.

Chuck had changed a lot too. When he left, he was still a kid, but he had turned into a man upon his return.

Obviously, Chuck had grown a lot when he was in the United States!

What on earth had Chuck been through in the United States?

"Yes, it's been a while."

"Come over, I'll treat you to a milkshake. Come on." Lara pulled Chuck into her store.

"Lara Jean! That's Lara Jean! I've watched her movie. She was really good at playing that shrew character," the girls exclaimed.

Lara was also a little celebrity!

Lara was embarrassed. "Thank you."

Chuck was dumbfounded. A shrew? Back then, Lara was cast as a shrew which suited her very much, as she was just playing her own character.

Seeing Chuck smiling, Lara blushed and answered shyly, "I'm not like that anymore. I'm gentle now, I'm serious."

The girls were startled. Lara was also a small-time celebrity. Why did she treat this person that way?

"Lara, do you know who is the owner of the plaza?" The girl asked and looked forward to the answer.

"The boss? You should ask him." Lara pointed at Chuck.

Chuck was speechless. This Lara!

"I asked him just now, but he didn't say it. I thought he didn't know." The girl curled her lip and shook her head.

"That's right. I think I know him!"

"So what if you know him?" Lara was unhappy.

"He's rich, and I heard that he's very handsome!" The girl was fangirling over him.

Lara wanted to laugh. Meanwhile, Chuck remained silent. She didn't notice how handsome he looked earlier. However, at that moment, she found that Chuck exuded a noble temperament, and it was enchanting.

"Then, do you think he's handsome?" Lara pointed at Chuck.

"Not bad."

"His eyes are really nice, and he looks cool. Young but mature!"

A few young girls said while Chuck rubbed his nose. Young but mature?

Lara burst into laughter. "Not bad? He's not that bad. He's the person you want to know. He's the boss of the plaza!"

Chapter 773

The girls were instantly shocked.

"Lara, what are you talking about? He is the owner of the plaza?"

"Yes, why would I lie about it?" Lara said.

When they looked at Chuck again, their faces flushed and they were embarrassed.

They were actually rude to him earlier.

It was really embarrassing for them.

"Hi, boss." The young girls looked at Chuck expectantly.

They suddenly felt different towards that the man whom they frowned upon earlier. They could feel Chuck's vibe and his low profile.

There were rumors that the owner of the plaza kept a very low-profile. It seemed like that was true!

If Lara didn't tell them, they really wouldn't have guessed that he was the owner.

The more they looked at him, the more pleasing to the eyes he became.

"Nice to meet you all," Chuck said with a smile.

The girls blushed. It was rare for such a big boss to be so approachable!

"Please enjoy yourself." Chuck and Lara headed into her store.

"Wow, he really keeps a low-profile!"

"I wonder if he has a girlfriend."

"He's so rich, how can he not have a girlfriend?"

The girls were disappointed.

"Ah! I forgot to ask him for his number just now."

"Don't worry. Lara knows him, she must have his number. You can just ask her for it."

"That's right. We'll ask Lara for his number later."

The girls were looking forward to it.

"This is my latest milkshake. Have a try." Lara made Chuck a milkshake.

Chuck took a sip with a smile on his face. He really thought that her milkshake was incredible. He felt that Lara was talented in that field.

"Charlotte, it's been a long time." Chuck greeted Charlotte who was busy at the store.

Charlotte's beautiful eyes lit up as she said softly, "Yes, it's been a long time since we last met."

"I have something to attend to. I have to look for Yolanda first," Chuck waved his hand and said.

"Yes, go ahead."

Chuck went upstairs.

Lara and Charlotte glanced at each other. Charlotte sighed and said, "Chuck has changed a lot. He is no longer that kid anymore."

"Yes. When he came back, I could see that he has become an ambitious man. I don't know what Chuck has been through in the United States. Maybe... he had a hard time there!" Lara said with distress.

Surely Chuck had a hard time there, or else why would he have such a drastic change?

"Why didn't you invite him for a dinner just now?"

"Are you thinking about that again?" Lara blushed. The last time when the both of them drugged Chuck's food, it was Willa who came and saved him.

Were they going for the same old trick again?

Lara couldn't do that to him.

"No, I wouldn't do that. Chuck is all grown up now, so are we. I won't mess around. I just want to invite him over for dinner," Charlotte shook her head and replied with a blushed face.

She felt ashamed when she thought of that.

"That's okay then. I'll talk to him later and see if he's willing. But I don't think he has the time," Lara mumbled to herself.

"Why? Does he want to avoid us?" Charlotte asked in disappointment.

"I don't know. I think Chuck's attitude has changed a lot this time. He glanced at us a few times when he saw us last time. This time his gaze was calm and ambitious. I think that he came back for something big. Maybe he wants to set up his business!" Lara said with disappointment.

The gap between them would become wider. Chuck had changed and wasn't a kid anymore. Lara was absolutely sure about that.

However, Chuck didn't even look at her.

There were no evil intentions in his mind. It showed that he was mature and was pursuing other goals.

"Really?" Charlotte sighed and continued to work absent-mindedly.

Lara was no longer in the mood to work. She sighed while sitting down.

Chuck went upstairs. Yolanda was planning the setup of the pharmaceutical company meticulously.

She didn't even notice that Chuck had stepped in.

Chuck did not disturb her until she got up to stretch.

When she found out that Chuck was at her office, she was taken aback and asked, "Chuck, when did you come in here?"

Yolanda could pick up Chuck's scent.

She and Zelda had known each other for so long that she had grown accustomed to Zelda's scent. She could pick up Zelda's scent on his body, which meant that Chuck had spent the night at her place.

Yolanda was also a grownup. She knew what could possibly happen when two adults spent the night together.

Yolanda sighed in her heart and the inexplicable feeling of despair reappeared.

Why did she feel that way?

"How is it?" Chuck asked.

Yolanda heaved a sigh of relief. Obviously, she was done with the planning.

"It's more or less done. I'll look for the owner of the abandoned factory today and buy it over." Yolanda basically had everything planned.

It should cost more than fifty million dollars!

It was relatively cost-effective as the factory was huge.

"Alright, I'll go with you."

Chuck didn't have any other plans.

Yolanda certainly did not refuse. She had always been running around alone. Chuck offered to help, and she could use the company!

She felt more at ease.

Both of them were busy that day.

When the boss of the abandoned factory heard that someone was going to buy his factory, he was so delighted that he didn't even think twice before selling it. Tens of millions of dollars was not a big deal for Chuck at that moment. He transferred the money right away.

The factory owner was taken aback. He didn't expect the young man in front of him to be so wealthy!

Since everything had been taken care of that afternoon, they should be able to complete the final procedures the next day.

Yolanda had done enough research in advance. That afternoon, she found several contractors to start renovating according to her blueprints.

Chuck was not short on cash.

The only thing on their mind was to complete the construction as soon as possible.

Chuck called his mom and wanted her to send over the doctor. As expected, his mom agreed.

Meanwhile, Yolanda's classmate paid her a visit. Chuck didn't mean to use her prescription, but he let her take part as well.

In addition, Chuck was planning for other projects as he wanted to conquer the entire market in his home country soonest possible.

However, it was not easy.

They spent the entire night working. Chuck rubbed his eyes and said, "Yolanda, let's go home!"

Chuck was embarrassed to keep a lady working overtime.

Yolanda smiled and said, "No, it's fine. I'll go home once I'm done here. You can leave first."

As she spoke, she suddenly received a phone call. She looked excited.

"Chuck, my friend has a big project. Are you interested?" Yolanda asked.

She was helping Chuck with the expansion.

"Yes!" Chuck replied seriously.

"Well then, follow me." Yolanda said eagerly. Chuck was astonished and said with a smile, "I'll give you a raise!"
