

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H. D. Cynthia Chapter 175

Chapter 175

When Judy heard Jessica's words, her face changed as she looked around in a panic. Finding herself in a hotel room, Judy breathed a sigh of relief secretly.

Judy calmed herself down. She looked at Jessica and said, "Jessica, we didn't know each other before. And I am grateful to you for helping me that day. How can I ever fool you?"

"Is that so? Then how do you explain the money you received? The man who put on a show with you that day also received money from the same account."

Jessica wore a smile on her face, but Judy felt even more afraid.

"It has nothing to do with you," Judy replied, looking a little bit guilty.

"Looks like you won't admit your mistake." Jessica chuckled and continued, "But it doesn't matter. Your answer is not important. Do you think I will just wait until you admit it?"

"W-What are you going to do? This is Los Angeles! You can't detain anyone! That's illegal!" When Judy heard Jessica's words, she suddenly had a bad premonition.

"Don't worry, I won't lock you up. I just want you to have a good time here tonight." Jessica looked at Judy with a half-smile.

"Miss Hall, you are beautiful and rich. It is not worth it to leave a criminal record for a nobody like me."

"Sounds like you do know me after all. Then can I assume that what you said just now was a lie?" Jessica raised her eyebrows and suddenly approached Judy.

• "I'm sorry, Miss Hall." Judy was startled, not expecting Jessica to suddenly get close.

Judy froze for a moment and then pleaded. "Miss Hall, I wasn't myself before. I am a few months behind on my rent. Without any income, I will go broke completely! I didn't mean to play that trick on you."

“I’m sorry, Judy. Not only did you do a bad thing, but you also used my kindness. Don’t worry, I won’t take the money away, but you need to pay the price for what you do.” Jessica lost her patience, took a few steps back, and glanced at Wendy next to her.

Wendy had been prepared for this moment. After Jessica gave her the signal, Wendy took out a pill box from her handbag and took out a pill. “Judy, is this familiar to you?” Jessica glanced at the pill in Wendy’s palm and then looked at Judy.

Judy looked at the pill and understood everything. She could no longer retain her calmness. She panicked and wanted to get off the bed, but she didn’t have any strength.

“Miss Hall, I can’t take this!”

“Is that so? Judy, I remember you gave me one before.” Jessica smiled. Judy was extremely regretful. She didn’t dare to call the police. She couldn’t afford to offend either Jessica or the person who hired her. Judy regretted having offended this capable woman for money.

If Jessica was going to teach Judy a lesson in this way, Judy felt she was still able to accept it. She knew that she would be fine once after that night.

“Miss Hall, will you let me go after I take this pill? Will you stop investigating the whole thing if I take it?”

Jessica snorted, “Judy, you are smart.”

Jessica handed the pill in her hand forward a little more. “Since you are so smart, you don’t need me to force you, right?”

Judy had just cried, and there were still tears on her face, which ruined her makeup.

Judy lowered her head and looked at the pill in Jessica’s palm. She gritted her teeth, reached for the pill, and threw it into her mouth. “Miss Hall, I hope you will keep your word.”

Jessica’s hand was empty. She withdrew her hand and smiled with satisfaction. “I appreciate your decisiveness. Wish you a happy night.”

Judy didn't say anything. She lowered her head, thinking about something.

Jessica took one last glance at Judy and smiled at Wendy. She went over to the sofa to pick up her handbag and left the room.

Watching Jessica leave the room, Judy breathed a sigh of relief. But she soon found that Wendy and the bodyguards hadn't left.

Sensing that Judy was looking at her, Wendy smiled and said, "I forgot to tell you. The man who you cooperated with that day will come over in a while. He has taken a pill as well, and we'll leave this room for you two later."

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H. D. Cynthia Chapter 176

Chapter 176

Hearing what Wendy said, Judy was stunned on the spot.

What did Jessica's secretary say just now?

Judy had never thought that Jessica could be so capable and cruel.

Wendy brought the two bodyguards out of the room and repeated Jessica's words to them. "You guys wait outside. You can leave when that man enters the room. Remember, she is not allowed to leave this room tonight. Understood?"

The task was not difficult. The two men found it easy to earn a thousand dollars this evening. They quickly nodded. "Understood."

Wendy nodded and walked into the elevator.

Jessica received a call from Hannah as soon as she walked out of the hotel.

"Jess, are you done yet? I have 'invited' Grace to Cloud Top. Mona has had her stay in a private room on the third floor. No guests there today."

"Alright, I'll be there soon." Jessica raised her eyebrows.

After hanging up the phone, Jessica got into her car and drove straight to Cloud Top.

As soon as Jessica arrived, she saw Hannah waiting for her at the door.

She smiled and walked over to Hannah.

She went straight to the hotel after leaving the company today, so she didn't have time to change her clothes. The white blouse and the black skirt did not fit the atmosphere of Cloud Top well.

However, she wasn't there for fun today.

They walked into Cloud Top together and took the staff-only elevator straight to the third floor.

Hannah pushed open the door of the private room and saw Grace sitting on the sofa with her legs crossed as well as Mona across from Grace.

Grace looked sullen.

"Jessica, take a seat. This is a new cocktail we recently made. Come and try it." Mona saw Jessica walk in and immediately greeted her with a smile.

"Yes, this fruit cocktail is made with passion fruit and Tequila. It tastes very delicious. Try it!" Hannah suggested

Jessica didn't want to drink, but she still took a sip when her two friends enthusiastically persuaded her,

"Not bad." She raised her eyebrows slightly. This wine tasted smooth.

"You should trust me. I have a taste for nothing but drinks," Hannah said with a smile.

"I don't care for your little gathering. If there's nothing else, I'll go home now." Grace had been ignored since Jessica entered the room. Her face got sullen and her tone unfriendly.

Jessica and Hannah stopped talking and looked at her together.

Hannah and Mona tacitly didn't say anything before Jessica. Jessica just smiled at Grace.

Grace became impatient. She stood up and looked at the three women in front of her. "I'm sorry. Please excuse me."

Grace walked to the door and opened it. Before she stepped out, she saw Wendy and the bodyguards in black suits standing behind Wendy.

"Miss Sandoval, come back and stay for a while with us." Jessica chuckled as she looked at Grace's back.

"Miss Hall, what do you mean?" Grace turned to look at Jessica, her beautiful eyes filled with anger.

"Miss Sandoval, take a look at this." Jessica took out a document from a bag and tossed it at Grace.

Grace flipped through the document. Her expression stiffened slightly, but then soon returned to normal. She closed the papers, looked at Jessica, and snorted. "I don't know what you mean."

"I don't know why Miss Sandoval has gone to all the trouble to set me up."

"Set you up? Miss Hall, are you a little paranoid or something?" Grace's tone was a little disdainful.

Hannah and Mona were dumbfounded. They both found that Grace was no longer as gentle and lovely as when she was with Terry that day.

Right now, Grace turned her head like a bad-tempered rich girl.

"Jess has found out about everything. Why are you still so stubborn?"

Hannah said, "If you don't say anything today, don't even think about leaving."

"Do you think I am the same as those ordinary women?" Grace looked at Hannah and then shifted her look to Jessica. "I know that the Hall family is rich and powerful. Although my family is not as influential as the Hall family, I won't let anyone bully me."

"So you think the Davison family is your backer? Just because you know Terry?" Jessica frowned slightly