Chapter 221

Chapter 221

Jessica looked at Justin, who was standing in front of her. She had to admit that Justin was a skillful liar.

Wedding before procedures? What was the difference? In that case, people would all assume that she was married to Lucas

That was really a good plan. In the end, Justin was trying to trap Jessica.

Justin's words made Jessica, who originally had some sympathy for him, feel very unhappy. She said nonchalantly, "Mr. Thomas, your top priority right now is receiving treatment. As for what you said, I will consider it carefully. Give me some time."

"Miss Hall, it's not that I don't understand you. It's just that I don't have much time left" Justin coughed twice, looking very weak.

"How about this? I'll think about it today and give you an answer tonight. What do you think?" Jessica looked very sincere so that Justin couldn't push her any further.

"Then I'll be waiting for your call." Justin had been waiting in the conference room for a long time. He did feel a bit unwell. So he took the chance to leave the office.

Dwayne hurriedly took a step forward and supported him.

Jessica and Wendy sent the two away. When the two left the Hall Group building, Jessica turned to look at Wendy.

"Go verify Mr. Thomas' physical condition. Be quick, and do it secretly," Jessica said to Wendy.

"Yes, Miss Hall." Wendy nodded and then immediately turned to leave.

Jessica returned to her office but was suddenly not in the mood to work. She felt that she didn't hate Lucas that much when she learned Olivia had been sent away.

However, she was not willing to remarry Lucas, especially when Justin had been playing tricks behind her back

She hadn't vented her anger yet. And she couldn't face Lucas peacefully.

Wendy did the research quickly. Jessica collected her thoughts when Wendy came back with a document in her hands

Jessica saw Wendy's look and then forged a guess. As expected, Jessica learned that Justin's illness was fake after she turned a few pages.

Justin didn't even bother to replace his medical records with a real patient's. The report was fabricated.

Jessica had to take Justin's illness into consideration when she planned her revenge. Now that it was fake, Jessica was set free

Justin had just handed her a brilliant opportunity.

Jessica had to grab it. How could she waste such a chance?

Before getting off work in the evening, Jessica called Justin.

Dwayne immediately handed the phone to Justin.

"Miss Hall, how is it? Have you thought it over?" Justin's tone was filled with anticipation.

Jessica frowned slightly. "Mr. Thomas, I am very sad about your illness. But there is no love between me and Lucas. I loved him before, but he never loved me. I have been tired all these years, so I don't want to be related to Lucas anymore in the future."

Justin was cunning and suspicious. If Jessica immediately agreed, Justin would definitely know that she was playing tricks.

Justin had gone out of his way to make Jessica marry Lucas. He wouldn't stop simply because Jessica "hedged".

In fact, Jessica was right.

Justin got heated when he heard Jessica's words. "Miss Hall, that's not true! Lucas likes you. Why doesn't he like you? If he didn't like you, how could you get that land in North LA? He asked Derek to yield it to you.

Chapter 221

"Also, he asked to go to your birthday party last time. Olivia was ignorant and offended you last time. He even locked her up in the Black House. Miss Hall, Lucas is stubborn, but I'm his grandfather. I can tell."

Jessica sighed and said, "I need to consider it."

Justin knew that Jessica wasn't that determined. He was delighted. "Sure! But we do need to deal with the rumors. Please make your decision as soon as possible."

Jessica nodded and said, "Mr. Thomas, it's getting late. I still have a meeting. I gotta go."

"Sure, sure."

Chapter 222

Jessica hung up the phone and put on a mischievous smile.

She wondered if Justin would become furious and really end up in the hospital in due course.

Right after Jessica's call, Justin dialed Lucas' number. Justin knew that Jessica wouldn't be so heartless. After all, she had been deeply in love with Lucas before.

Jessica rejected Lucas last night. When Lucas went back to his own apartment, he locked her phone in a cabinet. He was determined to ignore Jessica and anything related to her.

Lucas frowned when he saw the caller ID on his phone.

Justin called him only for two things. One, pushing Lucas to remarry Jessica. Two, telling Lucas to eat at home.

Lucas liked neither.

He looked at the phone that was vibrating on the table and had no intention of answering. The phone vibrated for about half a minute before it hung up automatically.

However, in just two seconds, the phone vibrated again.

The caller ID didn't change: Grandpa.

Lucas pursed his lips and reached out to tug at his tie impatiently. After four or five seconds, he picked up his phone and pressed the answer button. "Grandfather?"

"Lucas, I have good news for you."

Justin's tone was obviously filled with joy, but Lucas was not happy. Most of the things that made Justin happy would make him unhappy.

"What is it?"

"I met Jessica today, and I talked to her about the marriage between you two. I asked her to hold a wedding with you first. Guess what she said?"

Lucas paused. Justin had always wanted Jessica to remarry him. If Jessica had refused, Justin wouldn't have been so happy.

Then there was only one answer. Jessica agreed!

For a moment, Lucas felt his heart beat faster.

"She agreed?"

"She didn't agree today. She said she would think about it, but I think she would agree! I told you, women love sweet words. Didn't you confess to her? If you were more active, my great-grandson would have come out!

"Alright, I won't talk to you anymore. I think Jessica will ask to meet you soon. Get prepared and tell the PR department to prepare a clarification. I will also talk to your mom about the wedding. We'll make it as grand as possible."

"I see, grandpa."

After hanging up the phone, Lucas looked at the phone in his hand. He felt overwhelmed by what he had heard and he couldn't even tell if that was real.

Jessica agreed to marry him again?

Thinking of this, Lucas just couldn't help but feel overjoyed.

However, what Jessica had said last night was still in his mind. Lucas soon calmed down.

Chapter 222

Jessica's attitude towards him yesterday was far from nice. It was not even polite. Yet within less than 20 hours, she changed her mind?

Lucas was baffled. He gave credit to Hari for the first time for saying women were elusive.

Jessica put down the phone, and Wendy came in with a document in her arms. "Miss Hall."

"What is it?"

Jessica took a sip of water.

"An action plan for the land in the north."

Wendy said, handing the document to Jessica.

Jessica put down the glass in her hand, picked up the document, and quickly browsed through it.

"Thank you very much, Wendy."

Jessica paused. "Have you found out what happened to Luna?"

"I've traced the transaction records. They hired someone to cook the pot."

Wendy tried to get the research done quickly. But it seemed that the Cheek sisters had learned how to hide their names. Thus, it took Wendy some more time since the transactions were done anonymously.

Jessica nodded and looked down at the document in her hand. She smiled. "Wendy, the Thomas family will probably release the statement that Lucas and I will get married again in a few days. But we don't need to respond to it."

Wendy was a little puzzled, but she believed that Jessica must have her reasons for doing so. "Yes, Miss Hall."

Jessica looked at her and smiled, "You must have been exhausted these days. When the whole thing is over, I will put you on vacation."

"Thank you, Miss Hall."

Wendy did not refuse. She did need a long vacation to sort out her own business.

Seeing that Jessica did not give her any more instructions, Wendy turned around and closed the door before leaving.

Before finding out that Justin was pretending to be sick, Jessica still hedged about retaliating against Justin.

However, after learning that Justin was pretending to be sick to gain her sympathy, although Jessica did not say anything, she was furious.

She also realized that Olivia and the Cheek sisters were not the only reason why she couldn't get back together with Lucas. It was also because Lucas was the heir of the Thomas family.

Lucas could send Olivia away and punish Luna, but he could do nothing to Justin.

In that case, Jessica would have to take the initiative. They would be even then and Lucas wouldn't feel guilty anymore. Even if Lucas might hate her, she didn't care. She only wanted to get rid of the past.

It didn't take Jessica a long time to "think about the wedding with Lucas. She left the meeting room at seven in the evening and called Lucas.

After the divorce, Jessica directly blacklisted Lucas.

Jessica never thought she would call Lucas again.

Well, but in the end, she would still blacklist his number.

The call was soon picked up. "Jessica."

Jessica clicked her tongue and said, "I'm really flattered. I didn't expect my number to be on your contact list."

Lucas could hear the sarcasm in Jessica's words, but he did not want to argue with her. "Why are you calling?"

Jessica didn't want to beat around the bush. "Your grandfather should have told you about our re-marriage. I've considered it. We can have a wedding first."

"Are you serious, Jessica?"

"You can take it as a joke."

"Why?"

Lucas gripped his phone a little tighter. He was a little expectant and timid about the answer to this question.

Jessica couldn't help but laugh when she heard Lucas' question. Her lips curled into a casual smile. "Because I want to take revenge on you, of course."

Lucas felt that Jessica was just joking. She clearly liked him so much. Even if they had divorced, she was just pretending not to love him.

She wanted to take revenge on him?

If the remarriage was revenge, Lucas even looked forward to it.

"I see."

Jessica had no idea what Lucas had seen, but she was no longer interested in Lucas' thoughts.

She had finished what she wanted to say, and Jessica didn't want to say anything else. "I'm done now. I gotta go."

After that, Jessica hung up the phone.

After hanging up the phone, Jessica thought for a moment and got up to leave the office. She found Wendy and said, "Wendy, help me book a ticket to go back to New York tomorrow."

Wendy froze for a moment. "Miss Hall, anything happened in New York?"

Jessica smiled and shook her head. "No. It's just that I miss Dad and Mom."

"Then I'll book a plane ticket immediately!"

Hearing that, Wendy hurriedly had the ticket booked.

Jessica smiled and turned back to her office to pack her things up.

Not long after exiting the elevator, Jessica saw a familiar figure.

A man in a suit was holding a Mickey doll in his hands. He looked funny.

Jessica looked at him and couldn't help but laugh. "Mr. Davison, did you just come out of the amusement park?"

Terry looked down at her and said, "Is this gift okay?"

Jessica glanced at Terry, and her lips curled into a smile as she reached out her hand. "Thank you."

Terry handed the doll over with a smile and asked, "What do you want to eat for dinner?"

For the sake of the doll, Jessica did not refuse. "What about steak? What do you think?"

"Sure."

Terry looked down at Jessica's hand, but in the end, he didn't raise his hand to hold it.

Jessica had lost her appetite these days because of what Justin had done.

Now that she finally made her decision, she seemed to be in a good mood and had a good appetite.

The two of them arrived at a famous steakhouse in LA. The environment there was very good. The surrounding decorations also made people feel comfortable. There were people singing on site, but it was not too noisy.

When they paid the bill, Jessica stopped Terry. "I still owe you a lot."

Terry looked at her and said with a smile, "Maybe one day I will need you to owe me these favors to forgive my mistakes. I'm afraid that the favors you owe me are not enough."

Jessica was slightly stunned when she heard that. She didn't understand what Terry meant.

But Terry didn't say anything more and directly paid the bill.

Chapter 224

When Jessica and Terry walked out of the steakhouse to the parking lot, they happened to run into some students sending out questionnaires. Jessica and Terry were stopped. "Mister, Miss, can you please fill out some questionnaires for us?"

"Sure."

Jessica was in a good mood today, so she agreed. That was not something she would normally take a fancy to.

She took over the pen and filled it out.

Seeing that, Terry did the same.

More than ten seconds later, Jessica and Terry were both done. They were about to leave when a girl took out a bag and asked, "Thank you guys for your help. Here are some little gifts."

Jessica did not take them over. "Thanks, but no thanks."

The girl seemed to be a little disappointed. On the side, Terry suddenly chimed in, "You got us wrong. This beautiful lady here is not my girlfriend. Any other choices we have?"

Hearing that, the girl seemed to be delighted yet also a little embarrassed when she looked at Jessica, but she still happily handed her small bag to Jessica. "I'm sorry, Miss. I misunderstood. We have other gifts. You can choose whichever you like."

Jessica paused a bit. She didn't expect that Terry would explain it. After all, the three students were just strangers to them.

Besides, Terry had been chasing her for so long. He should be very happy when the girl thought they were a couple. A misunderstanding like this was irrelevant. He didn't have to explain it, but he did. He could have delighted himself by pretending to be Jessica's boyfriend, but he didn't.

It seemed that he was helping the girl, but he was also helping Jessica out.

Jessica looked at him with mixed feelings.

"Anything you like?"

Jessica came back to her senses and smiled as she chose a cute keychain. "This is very cute, thank you."

"My pleasure. You helped us first."

Jessica looked at the round-faced girl in front of her and couldn't help but raise her eyebrows.

What an innocent adorable girl!

As she spoke, the girl handed her bag to Terry again.

Terry glanced at the keychain in Jessica's hands and also chose a keychain. "Thank you."

The two walked quietly for more than ten seconds, and after crossing the road, the parking lot was only a hundred meters away.

Terry looked down at the keychain in his hand and said, "I'm a little stuffed. Shall we take a walk?"

Jessica couldn't refuse Terry's request when he asked her in a soft tone.

What's more, she was a little stuffed, too. "Sure."

"I haven't seen you in a while. What are you doing these days?" Jessica asked.

"I went to see a friend," Terry said vaguely.

Jessica frowned slightly. "A friend?"

Terry smiled at her as if explaining, "A male friend. He just returned to LA recently. He has been studying abroad."

"I didn't expect you to have a student friend." Jessica smiled.

Chapter 224

"He is not a real student, either. It was just that he made a mistake a few years ago, so he had to leave LA." Terry said, looking forward. Jessica didn't know what he was thinking about.

Jessica wasn't that curious at all, so she only made a general comment. "People make mistakes. What matters is to correct them."

Terry's eyebrows twitched as if he had thought of something. He asked, "You are saying one can be forgiven as long as he corrects his mistake? No matter what kind of mistake it is?"

"Well..." Jessica paused. She thought of Olivia and Justin. Her eyes turned cold. "That depends on whether this mistake harms others or not."

With that, Terry put on a mixed look. But in the end, he didn't say anything else.

"Things don't seem to be going well. Do you need my help?"

Terry suddenly spoke up. Jessica paused a bit before she turned to him and smiled. "Are you always this helpful?"

"Would you believe me if I said I was cold-hearted to others?"

Jessica raised her eyebrows. "I don't believe it."

Terry smiled as if he did not mind. "Oh, you will believe it in the future."

Jessica smiled faintly. "It seems that you are not a good person."

Hearing that, Terry laughed. "Jessica, I never said I was a good person."

Terry was silent for a moment before adding, "But you don't have to worry. I will never hurt you."

The word "never" didn't seem real to Jessica. She didn't respond to that. Instead, Jessica changed the topic and said, "I'd like to head back early today. Let's go."

"Okay."

Terry glanced at her and brought her back the way they had come.

Chapter 225

When Jessica and Terry returned to the car, it was already ten o'clock in the evening. Terry drove on their way back. Jessica didn't sleep well recently. She fell asleep right after getting into the car.

Only when the car suddenly stopped with a bang did Jessica wake up.

Jessica opened her eyes and looked at Terry, still in a haze. "What's wrong? A shunt?"

"No biggie. Stay in the car."

As he spoke, Terry had already unbuckled his seat belt and got out of the car.

As Terry opened the car door, some cold air blew in, which made Jessica sober up at once.

She looked at the two men who got out of the car ahead. The driver was obviously legless. He walked up to Terry and tried to push Terry. But Terry dodged him.

The driver spoke loudly. "Are you blind? Do you even know how to drive? I want indemnity! You are not going anywhere before giving me 10 thousand dollars."

As the man spoke, he pulled out an iron rod from the trunk and placed one end of it on Terry's shoulder. "Hurry up! Stop dawdling and take out the money!"

Jessica frowned and took out her phone to call the police.

At this time, another three men came down from the back seat of the car ahead and surrounded Terry.

Terry was forced to the side of the car, cornered. Jessica had just dialed the number when the windscreen broke

"What are you doing with your phone? Get out of the car! Now!"

The man took the iron rod and walked directly to the door at Jessica's side. Terry frowned. "You want money? Sure, you can have the money."

However, the man changed his mind when he saw how beautiful Jessica was. He said, "10 thousand dollars? Nah, I don't want the money anymore. Tell your chick to get out, or you'll have to bear the consequences."

His companion pulled him. "Come on, let's take the money and run. Don't cause any trouble!"

"Is it about the money now? That bitch wants to call the police. No, get her out of the car! She wanted to call the damn police. I'll have to teach her a lesson! Or my name is not Billy!"

Terry looked back at Jessica. "Don't get out."

As soon as he finished speaking, Billy smashed the window with his iron rod.

This was the first time Jessica had met such a ruffian.

She directly kicked the door open and got out of the car. As soon as she got out, Terry pulled her behind him. "Hast du die Polizei gerufen? (Did you call the police?)"

He lowered his voice, asking Jessica in German whether she had called the police.

Jessica replied in German, too, "Leider nicht. (I didn't.)" She didn't have the time to Terry did not panic. He smiled and said, "Okay, then protect yourself well. Do you know what I mean?"

Billy and the others didn't understand what they were saying, so Billy impatiently knocked on the front of the car with his iron rod. "What are you two talking about? Give me your damn phone!"

Jessica pointed to the car. "It's inside."

Billy had someone go in and fetch Jessica's phone. Seeing that Jessica hadn't called the police yet, the five guys acted even more boldly.

The five ruffians smelt of alcohol. Jessica knew that they were too drunk to reason with.

There were quite a few cars passing by. But the passers-by only thought that it was just a common car crash. None of them stopped to interfere.

Billy only saw Jessica through the window just now and didn't see her clearly. He only assumed that she was a beautiful woman. Now, Jessica got out of the car. Under the streetlights, Billy could see her delicate facial features and her good figure.

He licked the corner of his mouth. "Well, your girl looks pretty good! If you let your girlfriend have dinner with me, we won't need you to compensate us."

Terry said indifferently, "I'll compensate you with ten thousand dollars."

"No, we don't want money today. We want your girlfriend to dine with us!"

Jessica didn't say anything because Terry was standing in front of her. When Billy reached out to pull her, Terry immediately kicked him away.

That was how the fight got started. Terry made fast moves. He took care of the guys within a few minutes. They soon fell to the ground.

But Jessica felt that Terry had not used his full strength. When the police arrived, Terry was pointing at Billy with the iron rod.

Hearing the siren, Jessica rushed over and pulled Terry over. "Terry."

Hearing her voice, Terry put down the iron rod.

He threw the iron rod on the ground and took off his coat, putting it on Jessica's shoulders. "It's cold at night. Don't catch a cold."

Jessica suddenly thought of the scene many years ago when Lucas saved her.

However, as the thought flashed by the police arrived. The five ruffians on the ground were all pulled up by the police. Two officers walked up to Jessica and Terry. "What are your names? What's going on?"
